

DIDN'T NAB GAMBLING WITNESS

POLICE THWART EFFORT TO MOVE HIM TO HAVERSTRAW.

Policeman from the Tenth with Warrant concealingly guided by one Mr. Kennedy, but on Hall After a Raid, to Police Headquarters, but in vain.

The police nearly lost their star witness yesterday in a case they have against the proprietors of an alleged gambling house. If they hadn't done some quick thinking in short time they would have experienced the mortification of beholding their witness marched off from the corridors of Police Headquarters to the safe keeping of a Haverstraw jail.

An alleged poolroom on Fifty-ninth street near Columbus Circle was raided last Wednesday by Police Commissioner Flynn, who gathered in twelve prisoners, among them a man said by the police to be the proprietor of the place. This prisoner gave his name as Robert Kennedy and said that he lived at 38 West Sixtieth street. Besides common gambling Kennedy was charged with felonious assault.

He was charged with assault because the man who first told Flynn about the place, his star witness, had later been set upon on the street. This man said he had won $500 gambling there, had been led to come back in the morning and get it and had been beaten overnight.

The twelve prisoners taken in the raid were held on Thursday for examination in the West Side police court yesterday morning. Magistrate McAdoo had the prisoners before him in his own office first, where they arranged for bail. Kennedy was among those who obtained bail.

Just before the case came up yesterday morning one of Flynn's detectives told his chief of a conversation that he had overheard at Columbus Circle on Friday night. He said that two men had been talking about the forthcoming examination and that one of them had told the other that the complaining witness was to be hustled out of town and that a warrant had been issued for his arrest in Haverstraw.

As soon as Flynn heard this he arranged to have the case adjourned until tomorrow morning and took the witness down to Police Headquarters, where he questioned him and found that he had lived in Haverstraw. Flynn turned his witness over to Lieut. Collins and asked him to escort the man to the office of Inspector Russell of the Detective Bureau on the floor below. He said that Russell was to ascertain if the witness was wanted in Haverstraw. As the two stepped out into the hall in front of Flynn's office they came face to face with Kennedy and an official looking man.

"There's your man," exclaimed Kennedy.

The official looking man went up to Flynn's witness, poked a warrant under his nose and told him that he was wanted in Haverstraw. He said that he was a member of the Haverstraw police force. Collins looked at Kennedy and then he looked at his witness and then he brushed the Haverstraw policeman aside. He took the whole party down to Inspector Russell's office and first the police satisfied themselves that the Haverstraw warrant was genuine.

The Haverstraw policeman said that he was surprised to learn that Kennedy was out on bail and interested in the witness from Haverstraw. He said that some one had called him up on the phone and told him that the man the warrant was for would be at the West Side court yesterday morning. He went there and met Kennedy, who said that the case had been adjourned and offered to take him to Police Headquarters.

While the Haverstraw policeman was telling this in the office Kennedy made himself comfortable in a chair in the anteroom. Some one said something about "nerves" and asked him to leave. He strolled out and Commissioner Flynn saw him from his window. He yelled to Kennedy to wait, and then had a long talk with him on the pavement.

Mr. Kennedy's next appearance will be tomorrow morning, when he is to be examined in the West Side police court with the other eleven of Flynn's prisoners. Also there will testify as a complaining witness in the case the witness from Haverstraw. It has been arranged that our police will be responsible for his appearance on the Haverstraw warrant, which has been left for the time being in Inspector Russell's care.

AGED WANDERER DIES.

William Oliver, 82 Years Old, Found Lying in Road, a Victim of Pneumonia.

HEMPSTEAD, N. Y., April 8. When Dr. Lubin of the Hempstead Hospital stepped out of the ambulance the other night after a hurry call to a place on the Norwood road where a man had been reported as found lying in the roads he called the superintendent at once.

"It's Rip Van Winkle himself I've brought back," he said.

Just then the white bearded face of an aged man could be seen as he was helped out of the ambulance. His mustache was so long it reached his ears. His beard hung almost to his waist and his hair reached his shoulders. His clothes hung on him in tatters.

The man, who died yesterday morning of double pneumonia, proved to be William Oliver, 82 years old, and well known around Hempstead. He deserted his family many years ago and has since wandered about the country. For a long time he lived in the garret of a deserted house on the Norwood road, a lonely outskirt of Hempstead. His bed had consisted of a bundle of rags rolled up against the garret stairs. The other night he went into a little store of that neighborhood, and on insisting on going out again in the pouring rain finally accepted a blanket from a kind hearted woman. The next heard of him he was found lying in the road, where he had probably been out in the rain all night.

Persons living near the barn saw two men run away from the place just before dark yesterday. Amsterdam was found lying on the barn floor by a man named Gunther, a furniture dealer who rents one part of the stable. He had gone into the place to see if his horse was all right, when he stumbled over Amsterdam. Gunther hastened to the butcher's home and informed his wife. Amsterdam was carried to his home, three blocks away, where he was attended by Drs. Harris of Orange and Moore of Bloomfield.

BUTCHER ATTACKED IN STABLE.

Sender Amsterdam of Bloomfield Beaten and Found Unconscious May Die.

BLOOMFIELD, N. J., April 8.—Sender Amsterdam, a butcher of Bloomfield avenue, was found in his stable in Race street late last night unconscious from a blow on the head. He is in a critical condition and may die.

Amsterdam was found lying on the barn floor by a man named Gunther, a furniture dealer who rents one part of the stable. Amsterdam was carried to his home, three blocks away, where he was attended by Drs. Harris of Orange and Moore of Bloomfield.

The police have been working all day in the hope of capturing the highwaymen, but as yet have been unsuccessful. The injured man has not as yet regained consciousness. He had lost his money at home before going to the barn.

Dance of the Newman Club.

The Newman Club of Columbia University will hold its annual ball at the Hotel Astor on the evening of Friday, April 29. The club numbers on its roll nearly all the Catholic students in the university, and the annual ball, which has been held at the Astor for several years, has come to be one of the prominent post-tenor affairs of the Catholic city. It is hoped that if he can arrange to leave Washington at that time Senator James A. O'Gorman and Mrs. O'Gorman will be present. The daughter, Miss Alice M. O'Gorman is president of the Craigie Club of Barnard College, which is affiliated with the Newman Club.

FRED MATTHEWSON RELEASED.

Norman E. Lees Secures the Freedom of Another Matthewson Inmate.

PORONKESSIE, April 8.—Norman A. Lees, who has instituted court proceedings by which a number of Matthewson State hospital inmates have secured their freedom, was successful in another case to-day. He made an application to Judge Morchauer for an order discharging Frederick Matthewson. There was no opposition by Dr. Lamb, the superintendent, as it was shown that an order for the relator's release had been signed by Justice Goff in New York on March 13.

Asked why he had detained a man who was sane and entitled to his liberty, Dr. Lamb explained that he was waiting for his relatives to come and take him away. Judge Morchauer ordered Matthewson released in the custody of John F. Ringwood, attorney for Mr. Lees. Mr. Ringwood took him to his old home in New Jersey. Matthewson was tried in New York four years ago for murder in the first degree and acquitted on the ground of insanity. He has been at Matthewson ever since.

THE MACY MERCHANDISING SYSTEM IS BUILT UPON PRINCIPLES THAT MAKE IT AN ECONOMIC FORCE IN THE COUNTRY

Its work of gathering and distributing merchandise on the scale of many millions a year involves more than the outlay of capital, more than the application of knowledge and effort, more than the command of the market.

We have no monopoly of these qualities—but we DO monopolize a cash purchase-and-sale system that has for its object the elimination of every cost barrier. Macy prices are a standard by which to measure others' prices.

Your Easter Chapeau, Madame,

BOYS' CLOTHING FOR EASTER

We've compared values, as we always do before pricing our merchandise. We find that Norfolk and Knickerbocker suits, which we have in seven distinct models and in about fifty patterns, can also be had elsewhere.

But there is this difference: The quality, on which we lay our main emphasis, is priced at $8.94, and the same suit elsewhere is being universally sold at $10.00.

We might add that the same is true of the other qualities. For instance, those that we sell at $9.74 are sold at $12.75 elsewhere. Our $12.74 suits are sold at $16.50 elsewhere.

There is another point that the average shopper might not notice about these suits. The buttonholes on our suits are hand made, while those on the other suits are machine made.

To describe our assortment exhaustively is impossible. We can just indicate what can be found in our stock:

Norfolk and Knickerbocker Suits (described above), ranging in price from $4.96 to $14.74.

Blue Suits for Dress and Confirmation Wear, plain or fancy striped serge, in Norfolk and double-breasted models. Norfolk, 6 to 15 years, Knickerbockers, 8 to 18 years, $4.96 to $14.74.

Russian and Sailor Suits, plain blue and mixtures, $2.97 to $9.74.

Wash Suits, white and colored, 94c to $9.74.

An old Macy specialty is Knickerbocker Suits with two pairs of trousers, and so we are selling a choice of Norfolk or double-breasted models in both blue serge and mixtures at a lower price than others are selling the same suits with one pair of trousers.

To be more definite, Knickerbocker suits with one pair of trousers are selling elsewhere at $5.00, while Macy's price for the identical suit with two pairs of trousers is $4.96.

Spring Reefers in blue serges, shepherd plaids and mixed chevrons are here, too. Coats are lined with Venetian serge or alpaca. Sizes 2 1/2 to 12 years, typical Macy value at $4.96. Our stock of reefers is better than ever this season, and includes all prices from $2.97 to $9.74.
